ADVICE TO CONGRES.

Message of the President to the Present Session.

What He Desires the House and Senate to Do.

PASSAGE OF THE FEDERAL ELEC-TION BILL STRONGLY URGED.

RELATIONS OF RECIPROCITY AND STEAMSHIP SUBSIDY.

The Former Very Imperfect Without the Latter to Assist It-Argument in Favor of National Postal Telegraphy, an International Bank, a National Bankrup Law, Copyright Protection for Foreign Authors, Relief for the Supreme Court. Other Points.

The following is the president's message delivered to both branches of congress Monday: To the Senate and House of Representatives:

The reports of the several executive departments which will be laid before congress in the usual course will exhibit in detail the operations of the government for the last fiscal year, Only the more important incidents and results, and chiefly such as may be the foundation of the recommendations I shall submit, will be referred to in this annual message.

ommendations I shall submit, will be referred to in this annual message.

The vast and increasing business of the government has been transacted by the several departments during the year with faithfulness, energy and success. The revenues, amounting to above $450,000,000, have been collected and disbursed without revealing, so tar as I can ascertain, a single case of defalcation or embezzlement.

An earnest effort has been made to stimulate a sense of responsibility and public duty in all officers and employes of every grade, and the work done by them every grade, and the work done by them has almost wholly escaped unfavorable criticism. I speak of these matters with freedom because the credit of this good work is not mine, but is shared by the heads of the several departments with the great body of faithful officers and employes who serve under them. The closest scrutiny of congress is invited to all the methods of administration and to every item of expenditure. every item of expenditure.

Relations With Foreign Countries. The friendly relations of our country with the nations of Europe and of the east have been undisturbed, while the ties of good will and common interest that bind us to the state of the western hemisphere have been notably strengthened by the conference held in this capital to consider measures for the general welfare, pursuant to the invitation authorized by congress, the representatives of every independent state of the American continent and of Hayti, met in conference in this capital in October, 1889, and continued in session until the 19th of last April. This important convention marks a mest interesting and influential epoch in the history The friendly relations of our country sting and influential epoch in the history of the western hemisphere. It is note-worthy that Brazil, invited while under an imperial form of government, shared as a republic in the deliberations and results of the conference. The recommendations of this conference were all transmitted to

The international marine conference, which sat at Washington last winter, reached a gratifying result. The regulations suggested have been brought to the the attention of all the governments represented and the adoption is confidententaly predicted.

The legislation of congress at the last

The legislation of congress at the last session is in conformity with the propositions of the conference and the proclamation therein provided for will be issued when the other powers have given notice of their adhesion.

The conference of Brussels, to devise means for suppressing the slave trade in Africa, afforded an opportunity for a new expression of the interest the American people feel in that great work.

An accord was reached, the influence of which will be very helpful and extend over a wide region. As soon as these measures shall receive the sanction of the Netherlands, for a time withheld, the general acts will be submitted for ratification by the senate. Meanwhile negotiations have been opened for a new and complete treaty of friendship, commerce, and navigation been opened for a new and complete treaty of friendship, commerce and navigation between the United States and the independent state of the Congo.

Toward the end of the past year the only independent monarchical government on the western continent, that of Brazil, ceased to exist, and was succeeded by a republic Diplomatic relations were at once reason to exist, and was succeeded by a repu' ic. Diplomatic relations were at once es ablished with a new government, but it was not completely recognized until an opportunity had been afforded to ascertain that it had popular approval and support. When the course of events had yielded assurence of this fact, no time, was lost in when the course of events had yielded assurance of this fact, no time was lost in extending to the new government a full and cordial welcome into the family of American commonwealths. It is confidently believed that the good relations of the two countries will be preserved, and that the future will witness an increased intimacy of intercourse and expansion of their mutual commerce.

their mutual commerce. Central American Troubles.

The peace of Central America has again been disturbed through a revolutionary change in Salvador, which was not rec-ognized by other states, and hospility broke out between Salvador and Guatemala, threatening to involve all Central America in conflict and to undo the pro-gress which had been made toward a union of their interests. The efforts of this government were promptly and zealously exercised to compose their differ ences, and through the active efforts of the representative of the United States a prorepresentative of the United States a provisional treaty of peace was signed Aug. 26, whereby the right of the republic of Salvador to choose its own rulers was recognized. Gen. Ezeta, the chief of the provisional government, has since been confirmed in the presidency, by the assembly, and diplomatic recognition followed.

The captain of the steamer refused to give up his passenger without a written order from the United States minister; the latter furnished the desired letter, stipulating, as the condition of his action, that Gen. Barrundia's life should be spared and that he should be tried only for offenses growing out of his insurrectionary movements.

This letter was produced to the captain

This letter was produced to the captain of the Acapuaco by the military commander at San Jose, as his warrant to take mander at San Jose, as his warrant to take the passenger from the steamer. Gen. Barrundia resisted capture and was killed. It being evident that the minister, Mr. Mizner, had exceeded the bounds of his authority in intervening, the compliance with the demands of the Guatemalan authorities, to authorize the effect in violation of precedent the seiure on a vessel of the United States of a passenger in transit charged with political offences, in order that he might be tried for such offences under what was described as martial law. During the past year negotiations have been renewed for the settlement of the claims of American citizens against the government of Chili, principally growing out of the late war with Peru. The reports from our minister at Santiago warrant the expectation of an early and satisfactory a ljustment.

Our relations with China, which have

Our relations with China, which have for several years occupied so important a place in our diplomatic history, have called for careful consideration and have been the subject of much correspondence.

You will be asked to provide the means of accepting the invitation of the Kalian government to take part in an approaching conference to consider the adoption of a universal prime meridian from which to reckon longitude and time. As this proposal follows in the track of the reform sought to be initiated by the meridian conference of Washington, held on the invitation of this government, the United States should manifest a friendly interest in the Italian proposal.

In this connection I may refer with approval to the suggestion of my redecessors that standing provision be made for accepting, whenever deemed advisable, the frequent invitations of foreign govern-ments to share in conferences looking to the advancement of international reform in regard to science, sanitation, commer-cial laws and procedure, and other matters a Tecting the intercourse and progress of modern communities.

A revision of treaty relations with Jayan is still unsettled. The friendship between our country and Mexico was never so conspicuous as now. Ou cordial relations with Spain continue and the commercial relations with Cuba are becoming more important

He continues: It is not doubted that a special arrangement in regard to commerce, based upon the recipracity provision of the recent tariff act, would operate most beneficially for both governments. This subject is now receiving attention.

The restoretion of the remains of John

The restoration of the remains of John Ericsson to Sweden afforded a gratifying occasion to honor the memory of the great inventor, whose genius our country owes so much, and to bear witness to the unbroken friendship which has existed be tween the land which bore him and our own, which bore him as a citizen.

The commission to revise claims be tween this country and Venezuela concluded its labors, and matters that had been under discussion several years, were disposed of in a manner creditable service in tostering our commercial relations abroad and in protecting the domestic revenues. As the scope of operations expands increased provision must be made to keep up the essential standard of efficiency. The necessity of some adequate measure of supervision and inspection has been so often presented that I need only commend the subject to your attention. Receipts and Expenditures.

The revenues of the government from all sources for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1890, were $463,963,080.55, and the total expenditures for the same period were $358, 618, 584.52. The postal receipts have not heretofore been included in the statement of these aggregates, and for the purpose of comparison the sum of $60,882,0.7,63 should be deducted from both sides of the account. The surplus for the year, including the amount applied to the sinking fund, was $105,344,496.03. The receipts for 1890 were 16,030,223.79, and the expenditures $15,739,871 in excess of those of 1889. The customs receipts increased $5,835,842.89

The customs receipts increased $5,835,842.88 and the receipts from internal revenue $11,725,191.89, while on the side of expenditures, that for pensions was $19,312,075.96 in excess of the preceding year.

The treasury statement for the current fiscal year, partly actual and partly estimated, is as follows: Receipts from assources, $406,000,000; total expenditures, $354,000,000, leaving a surplus of $52,000,000—not taking the postal receipts into the account on either side. The loss of revenue from customs for the last quarter is estimated at $25,000,000, but from this is deducted a gain of about $16,000,000, realized during the first four months of the ized during the first four months of the year.

For the year 1892 the total estimated receipts are $373,000,000, and the estimated expenditures $357,852,209.42, leaving an estimated surplus of $15,147,790.58, which, with a cash balance of $52,000,000 at the beginning of the year, will give $67,147,790.58 as the sum available for the redemption of outstanding bonds or other uses. The estimates of receipts and expenditures for the postoffice department being equal, are not included in this statement, on either side included in this statement on either side.

Silver and Gold. The act "directing the purchase of silver bullion on the issue of treasury notes thereon" approved July 14, 1890, has been administered by the secretary of the treasury with an earnest purpose to get into circulation at the earliest possible dates the full monthly amounts of treasury notes contemplated by its provisions and at the same time to give to the market for silthe same time to give to the market for silver bullion such support as the laws contemplates. The recent depreciation in the price of silver has been observed with regret. The rapid rise in price which anticipated and followed the passage of the act was influenced in some degree by speculation and the recent reaction is in part the result of the same cause and in part of the recent monetary disturbances.

Some months of further trial will be necessary to determine the permanent effect of the recent legislation upon silver values, but it is gratifying to know that values, but it is gratifying to know that the increased circulation secured by the act has exerted and will continue to exert a most beneficial influence upon business and upon general values.

While it has not been thought best to renew formally the suggestion of an international conference looking to an agreement touching the full use of silver for ment touching the full use of silver for coinage at a uniform rate, care has been taken to observe closely any change in the situation abroad, and no favorable opportunity will be lost to promote a result which it is confidently believed would confer very large benefits upon the commerce of the world.

The recent monetary disturbances in England are not unlikely to suggest a re-examination of opinions upon this subject.

examination of opinions upon this subject. Our very large supply of gold will, if not lost by impulsive legislation in the sup-posed interest of silver, give us a portion of advantage in promoting a permanent and safe international agreement for the free use of silver as a coin metal.

The efforts of the secretary to increas the volume of money in circulation by keeping down the treasury surplus to the lowest practicable limit have been unremitting and in a very high degree successful. The tables presented by him, showing the increase of money in circulation during the last two decades, and especially the table showing the increase during the nineteen months he has administered the affairs of the department are interesting and instructive. The increase of money in circulation during the nineteen months had been in the aggregate $93,866,813, or about $1.50 per capita, and of this increase only $7,100,000 was due to the recent silver legislation. That this substantial and needed aid given to commerce resulted in an enormous reduction of the public debt and of the annual interest charge is mat-ter of increased satisfaction. There have been purchased and redeemed since March 4, 1889, four and four-and-a-half per cent. bends to the amount of $211,832,450, at a cost of $246.620,741, resulting in the reduction of the annual interest charge of $8. 967,608 and a total saving of interest of $51,576,706.

I notice with great pleasure the state ment of the secretary that the receipt from internal revenue have increased di ing the last fiscal year nearly $12,000,000 and that the cost of collecting this larger revenue was less by $90,617 than for the same purpose in the preceding year. The percentage of cost of collecting the customs revenue was less for the last fiscal year than ever before year than ever before. The War Department.

The report of the secretary of war exhibits several gratifying results attained dur-ing the year by wise and unostentatious methods. The percentage of deserting from the army, an evil for which both con-gress and the department have long been seeking a remedy, has been reduced during the past year 24 per cent., and for the months of August and September, during which time the favorable effects of the act of June 16 were felt 33 per cent. as compared with a same months of 1889.

The results attained by a reorganization and consolidation of the divisions having charge of the hospital and service record of the volunteer soldiers are very remark able. In one year it examined and an swered over 340,000 calls for information

I concur in the recommendations of the secretary that adequate and regular appropriations be continued for coast defens works and ordnance. Plans have been practically agreed upon, and there can be no good reason for delaying the execution of them, while the defenseless state of our great seaports furnishes an urgent reason for wise expedition.

The encouragement that has been ex tended to the militia of the states, gener-erally and most appropriately designated the "National Guard," should be continued and enlarged. These military organiza-tions constitute, in a large sence, the army of the United States, while about five-sixths of the annual cost of their maintenance is defrayed by the states.

Our Judiciary Department.

The report of the attorney general is under the law submitted directly to congress, but as the department of justice is one of the executive departments some reference to the work done is appropriate berg.

A vigorous and, in the main, an effective effort, has been made to bring to trial and punishment to all violators of the laws: but, at the same time, care has been taken that frivolous and technical offenses should that frivolous and technical offenses should not be used to swell the fees of officers or to harass well disposed citizens. Especial attention is called to the facts connected with the prosecution of violations of the election laws, and of offenses against United States officers. The number of convictions secured, very many of them upon pleas of guilty, will, it is hoped have a salutary restraining influence.

The vacation by judicial decrees of fraudulent certificates of naturalization, upon bills in equity filed by the attorney general in the circuit court of the United States, is a new application of a familiar equity jurisdiction. Nearly 100 such decrees have been taken during the pear, the evidence disclosing that a very large num-evidence disclosing that a very large number of fraudulent certificates of naturalization have been issued. And in this connection I beg to renew my recommenda-tion that the laws be so amended so as to require a more full and searching inquiry into all the facts necessary to naturaliza-tion before certificates are granted. It cer-tainly is not too much to require that an application for American citizenship shall be heard with as much care and recorded with as much formality as are given to cases involving the pettiest property right

Our Postoffice. The report of the postmaster general shows the most gratifying progress in the important work committed to his diestion. The business methods have been greatly improved. A large economy in x-readitives and an increase of $4.250.00. greatly improved. A large economy in expenditures and an increase of $4,750,00 in receipts have been realized. The deciency this year is $5,786,300, as against $6,350,183 last year, notwithstanding the great enlargement of the service. Mail routes have been extended and quickened, and greater couracy and dispatch in distribution and delivery has been attained.

The passage of the act to amend certain sections of the revised statutes relating to lotteries approved Sept. 19, 1890, has been received with great and deserved popular favor. The postoffice department and the department of justice at once entered upon the enforcement of the law with sympathe enforcement of the law with sympa-thetic vigor, and already the public mails have been largely freed from the fraudu-lent and demoralizing appeals and litera-ture emanating from the lottery compa-

Our Navy. The construction and equipment of the new ships for the navy have made very satisfactory progress. Since March 4, 1889, nine new vessels have been put in commission, and during this winter four more, including one monitor, will be added. The construction of the other vessels authorized is being pushed, both in the government and private yards, with energy and watched with the most scrupulous care. The experiments conducted during the year to test the relative resisting power of armor plates have been so valuable as to attract great attention in Europe. The only part of the work upon the new ships that is threatened by unusual delay is the armor plating, and every effort is being made to reduce that to the minimum.

The Interior.

The report of the secretary of the interior exhibits with great fullness and clearness the vast work of that department and the satisfactory results attained. The suggestions made by him are carnestly commended to the consideration of congress, though they cannot all be given particular mention here.

The Indians.

The several acts of congress looking to the reduction of the larger Indian reserva-tions to the more rapid settlement of the Indians upon individual allotments, and the restoration to the public domain of lands in excess of their needs, have been largely carried into effect, so far as the work was confided to the executive.

Agreements have been concluded since March 4, 1889, involving the cession to the United States of about 14,723,000 acres of land.

Attention is also called to the fact that the appropriations made in the case of the Sioux Indians have not covered all the stipulated payments. This should be promptly corrected. If an agreement is confirmed, all of its terms should be complied with without delay and full appropriate. plied with without delay, and full appropriations should be made.

The policy outlined in my last annual message in relation to the patenting of lands to settlers upon the public domain has been carried out in the administration of the land office.

The disability pension act, which was approved on the 27th of June last, has been put into operation as rapidly as was practicable. The increased clerical force provided was selected and assigned to work, and a considerable part of the force engaged in examinations in the field was recalled and added to the working force of the office. The examination and adjudication of claims have, by reason of improved methods, been more rapid than ever before. There is no economy to the ever before. There is no economy to the government in delay, while there is much hardship and injustice to the soldier. The anticipated expenditure, while very large, will not, it is believed, be in excess of the estimates made before the enactment of the law. This liberal enlargement of the general law should suggest a more careful scrutiny of bills for special relief, both as to the cases where relief is granted and as to the amount allowed.

The Mormons.

The increasing numbers and influence of the non-Mormon population in Utah are observed with satisfaction. The recent let-ter of Wilford Woodruff, president of the Mormon church, in which he advised his people "To refrain from contracting any marriage forbidden by the laws of the land," has attracted wide attention, and it is hoped that its influence will be highly beneficial in restraining infractions of the laws of the United States. But the fact should not be overlooked that the doctrine or belief of the church that polygamous marriages are rightful and supported by divine revelation remains unchanged.

New States.

The admission of the states of Wyoming and Idaho are events full of interest and congratulation, not only to the people of those states, now happily endowed with a full participation in our privileges and responsibilities, but to all our people. Another belt of states stretches from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The Patent Office.

The work of the patent office has won from all sources very high commendation. The amount accomplished has been very largely increased, and all the results have been such as to secure confidence and consideration for the suggestions of the commissioner.

The Census.

The enumeration of the people of the United States, under the provisions of the Act of March 1, 1889, has been completed, and the result will be at once officially communicated to congress. The com-

Suppose the Commercial Club takes hold of the matter. The names of the two gentlemen can be learned at this office.

THE recent census establishes one thing and that is in point of municipal and county indebtedness the Southern States are less burdened than any other section of the country. In New England the county debt amounts, in round numbers, to $4,500,000 against a municipal debt of $87,000,000; in the middle States the net county debt is $21,000,000, against a municipal debt of $227,000,000; in the Southern States the county debt is $21,-000,000, against a municipal debt of $52,-000,000, and in the Western States the county debt is $67,000,000, against a muminimal dabt at one one one

THE Republicans are in more desperate traits now than when they stole Mon- COFFEE, per pound ana and admitted two or three " mining camps" to Statehood in order to intrench their party in the U. S. Senate. The late political cyclone swept away most of their majority in that body, and they are now scheming with William E. Chandler to defraud the Democrats of New Hampshire of one Senator.

The situation up there is a peculiar one. The New York Star thus explains it: "In the last election the Democrats secured a majority of the legally entitled members of the Legislature. In addition there were elected forty members on what are called 'if entitled' tickets-that is, they were elected in anticipation that the towns or wards that chose them have made suffi-THE Toronto Empire declares that the cients gains under the present census to the elections of several Republican members were vitiated by fraud that will unseat the returned members, if the Demator and the political control of the State for two years is at stake, and the struggle is for the organization of the House of Representatives. FIRST IN LOW PRICES.

FIRST IN QUALITIES.

FIRST IN THE INTERESTS OF THE PEOPLE.

We are the first in low prices because we have the advantage of getting quantity discounts, in addition to cash discounts, and give our customers the benefit of these.

We are first in qualities because we have the whole field of manufacturers to select from; we cull from the very best of these, and the world cannot surpass them. This makes us first hands to the people---we are no "middle man"---our customers get from us the benefits of the profits of the "middle man." We do not buy of jobbers. We know no middle condition. The "middle man" is a relic of the mass covered past. of the moss-covered past.

We are first in the interests of the people because our system, from which we never vary, of necessity works to their interest. Our unalterable rule is cash and one price. We treat all alike in respect to prices. We charge Mr. Smith, who has no Bank account, just the same for a pair of sheet we charge Mr. Jones, the country clin same for a pair of shoes that we charge Mr. Jones, the coupon clipper, for a similar pair. We do not burden the people with debts We have no credit customers of the "good" class to saddle with percentage for delinquencies, making them carry our bad debts.

We have no shelf-worn goods, no "crabs" or "trash."

Our goods are new; we do not permit them to get old---our prices force them to go.

devolves upon congress the duty of making a new apportionment of representatives "among the several states according to their respective numbers."

At the last session I had occasion to return with my objections several bills making provisions for the erection of public buildings, for the reason that the expenditures contemplated were, in my opinion, greatly in excess of any public need. No class of legislation is more liable to abuse, or to degenerate into an unseembly scramble about the public treasury than this. There should be exercised in this matter a wise economy, lased cised in this matter a wise economy, lased upon some responsible and impartial examination and report as to each case under a general law.

Agriculture.

The report of the secretary of agriculture deserves especial attention in view of the fact that the year has been marked in a very unusual degree by agitation and organization among the farmers looking to an irc case in the profits of their business. It will be found that the efforts of the department have been intelligently and zealously devoted to the promotion of the interests intrusted to its care.

A very substantial improvement in the market prices of the leading farm products during the year is noticed.

The export trade in beef and pork products and in dairy products was very largely increased, the increase in the article of butter alone being from 15,504,978 pounds to 29,748,042 pounds, and the total increase in the value of meat and dairy products exported being $34,000,000.

The efforts of the secretary to establish the healthfulness of our meats against the disparaging imputations that have been put upon them abroad have resulted in substantial progress.

The information given by the secretary of the progess and prospects of the beet sugar industry is full of interest. It has already passed the experimental stage and is a commercial success. The area over which the sugar beet can be successfully cultivated is very large, and another field crop of great value is offered to the choice of the farmer.

The secretary of the treasury concurs in the recommendation of the secretary of agriculture that the official supervision provided by the tariff law for sugar of domestic production shall be transferred to the department of agriculture.

Civil Service. The law relating to the civil service has, so far as I can learn, been executed by those having the power of appointment in the classified service with fidelity and impartiality, and the service has been increasingly satisfactory. The report of the commission shows a large amount of good work done during the year with very lim. ited appropriations.

Congress Congratulated.

I congratulate the congress and the country upon the passage at the first session of the Fifty-first congress of an unusual number of laws of very high importance. That the results of this legislation will be the quickening and enlargement of our manufacturing industries, large and bette: markets for our breadstuffs and provisions both at home and abroad, more constant employment and better wages for our working people, and an increased supply of a safe currency for the transaction of business I do not doubt.

Some of these measures were enacted at so late a period that the beneficial effects upon commerce which were in the contem plation of congress have as yet but par-tially manifested themselves.

General Trade and Industry. The general trade and industrial conditions throughout the country during the year have shown a mirked in provement. Exports of Domestic Merchandise.

The value of our exports of domestic merchandise during the last year was over $115,000,000 greater than the preceding year, and was only exceeded once in our history. About $100,000,000 of this excess was in agricultural products.

The depression in the prices of agricultural products had been greatly relieved and a buoyant and hopeful tone was beginning to be felt by all our people. These promising influences have been in some degree checked by the surprising and very unfavorable monetary events which have recently taken place in England. It is gratifying to know that these did not grow in any degree out of the financial re-lations of London with our people or out of any discredit attached to our securities held in that market.

The General Tariff Act.

The general tariff act has only partially gone into operation, some of its important provisions being limited to take effect at dates yet in the future. The general pro-visions of the law have been in force less than sixty days. Its permanent effects upon trade and prices still largely stand in conjecture. It is curious to note that the advance in the prices of articles wholly unaffected by the tariff act was by many hastily ascribed to that act.

Notice was not taken of the fact that the general tendency of the markets was upward from influences wholly apart from the recent legislation. The enlargement of our currency by the silver bill undoubtedly gave an upward tendency to trade and had a marked effect on prices; but this natural and desired effect of the silver legislation was by many erroneously attribused.

natural and desired effect of the silver legislation was by many erroneously attributed to the tariff act.

There is neither wisdom nor justice in the suggestion that the subject of tariff revision shall be opened before this law has had a fair trial. It is quite true that every tariff schedule is subject to objections. No bill was ever framed, I suppose, that in all of its rates and classifications had the full approval, even of a party caucus. Such legislation is always and necessarily the product of compromise as to details, and the present law is no exception. But in its general scope and effect, I think it will justify the support of those who believe that American legislation should conserve and defend American tion should conserve and defend American trade and the wages of American work-

The misinformation of the terms of the The misinformation of the terms of the act, which has been so widely disseminated at home and abroad, will be corrected by experience, and the evil auguries as to its results confounded by the market reports, the savings broks, international trade balances and the general prosperity of our people. Already we begin to hear from abroad and from our custom houses that the prohibitory effect upon importations imputed to the act is not justified.

The imports at the port of New York for

The imports at the port of New York for the first three weeks of November were nearly 8 per cent. greater than for the same period in 1889 and 29 per cent. greater than in the same period of 1888. And far from being an act to limit, expects of far from being an act to limit exports, I confidently believe that under it we shall secure a larger and more profitable participation in foreign trade than we have ever enjoyed, and that we shall recover a proportionate participation in the ocean-carrying trade of the world.

The criticisms of the bill that have come

The criticisms of the bill that have come to us from foreign sources may well be rejected for repugnancy. If these critics really believe that the adoption by us of a free trade policy, or of tariff rates having reference solely to revenue, would diminish the participation of their own countries in the commerce of the world, their advocacy and promotion by speech and other forms of organized effort of this movement among our people is a rare exhibition of anselfishness in trade.

And, on the other hand, if they sincerely believe that the adoption of a protective tariff policy by this country inures to their profit and our hurt, it is noticeably strange profit and our furt, it is noticeably strange that they should lead the outcry against the authors of a policy so helpful to their countrymen and crown with their favor, those who would snatch from them a sub-stantial share of a trade with other lands already inadequate to their necessities.

There is no disposition among any of our There is no disposition among any of our people to promote prohibitory or retaliatory legislation. Our policies are adopted not to the hurt of others but to secure for ourselves those advantages that fairly grow out of our favored position as a nation. Our form of government, with it incident of universal suffrage, makes it imperative that we shall save our working records from the agitations and distresses people from the agitations and distresses which scant work and wages that have no margin for comfort always beget. But after all this is done it will be found that our markets are open to friendly commercial exchanges of enormous value to the other creat rowers.

From the time of my induction into office the duty of using every power and influence given by law to the executive department for the development of larger markets for our products, especially our farm products, has been kept constantly in mind, and no effort has been or will be spared to promote that end. We are under no disadvantage in any foreign market, except to at we pay our workmen and workwomen better wages than are paid elsewhere—better abstractly, better relatively to the cost of the necessaries of life. I do not doubt that a very large in-creased foreign trade is accessible to us without bartering for either our home market for such products of the farm and shop as our own people can supply or the wages of our working people. In many of e products of wood and iron and in meats and breadstuffs, we have advantages that only need better facilities of intercourse and transportation to secure for them large foreign markets. The reciprocity clause of the tariff act wisely and effectively opens the way to secure a large reciprocal trade in exchange for the free admission to our ports of certain products. The right of independent nations to make special reciprocal trade concessions is well established, and does not impair either the comity due to other powers or what is known as the "lavored nation clause" so generally found in commercial treaties. What is given to one for an adequate agreed consideration can not be claimed by another freely.

The state of the revenues was such that we could dispense with any import duties upon coffee, tea, hides and the lower grades of sugar and molassas. That the large advantage resulting to the country producing and exporting these articles by placing them on the free list entitled us to expect a fair return in the way of custon: concessions upon articles exported by us to them was so obvious, that to have gratuitiously abandoned this opportunity to enla ge our trade, would have been an unpardonable error.

There were but two methods of maintaining control of this question open to congress: To place all of these articles upon the dutiable list subject to such treaty agreements as could be secured, or to place them all presently upon the free list, but subject to the reimposition of specified duties if the countries from which we received them should refuse to give us suitable reciprocal benefits. This latter method, I think, possess great ad-vantages. It expresses in advance the consent of congress to reciprocity arrangements affecting these products which must otherwise have been delayedand unascertained until each treaty was ratified by the senate and the necessary legislation enacted by congress.

Experience has shown that some treaties looking to reciprocal trade, have failed to secure a two-thirds vote in the senate for ratification, and others having passed that stage have for years awaited the con-currence of the house and senate in such modifications of our revenue laws as were necessary to give effect to their provisions We now have the concurrence of both houses in advance in a distinct and definite offer of free entry to our ports of specific: ricles.

The executive is not required to deal in conjecture as to what congress will accept. Indeed, this reciprocity provision is more than an offer. Our part of the bargain is complete delivery has been made, and when the countries from which we receive sugar, coffee, tea, and hides have placed on their free list such of our products as shall he agreed upon, as an equivalent to our concession, a proclamation of that fact completes the transaction; and in the meantime our own people have free sugar, tea, coffee and hides

The indications thus far given are very hopeful of early and favorable action by the countries from which we receive our large imports of coffee and sugar, and it is confidently believed that if steam communication with these countries can be promptly improved and enlarged the next year will show a most gratifying increase in our exports of breadstuffs and provisions as well as of some important lines of The indications thus far given are very ions as well as of some important lines of manufactured goods.

In addition to the important bills that became laws before the adjournment of the last session, some other bills of the highest last session, some other bills of the highest importance were well advanced toward a final vote and now stand upon the calendars of the two houses in favored positions. The present session has a fixed limit, and if these measures are not now brought to a final vote all the work that has been done upon them by this congress is lost. Postal Telegraph.

The use of the telegraph by the postoffice department as a means for the rapid transmission of written communication is, I be-The government does not own or operate the railroads and it should not, I think, own or operate the telegraph lines. It does, however, seem to be quite practicable for the government to contract with the telegraph companies as it does with the railroads. graph companies, as it does with the railroad companies, to carry at specified rates road companies, to carry at specified rates such communications as the senders may designate for this method of transmission. I recommend that such legislation be enacted as will enable the postoffice department fairly to test by experiment the advantages of such a use of the telegraph.

As to Federal Elections. In my last annual message I suggested that the development of the existing law providing a Federal supervision of congressional elections offered an effective method of referring method of reforming these abuses. The need of such a law has manifested itself in many parts of the country, and its whole-some restraints and penalties will be use-ful in all. The constitutionality of such legislation has been affirmed by the supreme court. Its probable effectiveness is evidenced by the character of the opposition that is made to it. It has been denounced as if it were a new exercise of Federal power and an invasion of the rights of the states. Nothing could be further from the truth. Congress has already fixed the time for the election of members. has already fixed the time for the election of members of congress. It has been declared that votes for members of congress must be by written or printed ballot; it has provided for the appointment by the circuit courts in certain cases and upon the petition of a certain number of citizens, of election supervisors, and prescribed the duties of such supervisors.

The same law provides for the appointment of deputy United States marshals to attend at the polls, support the supervisors in the discharge of their duties, and to arrest persons violating the election laws. The provisions of this familiar title of the revised statutes have been put into exercise by both the great political parties, and in the north, as well as in the south, by the filing with the court of the petitions required by law.

It is not, therefore, a question whether we shall have a Federal election law, for we have one and have had for nearly twenty years, but whether we shall have an effective law. The present law stops jts. short of effectiveness, for it surrenders to the local authorities all control over the certification which establishes the prima facie right to a seat in the house of representatives. This defect should be cured. Equality of representation and the parny of the electors must be maintained, or everything that is valuable in our system of government is lost.

The qualifications of an elector must be sought in the law, not in the opinions, prejudices or fears of any class, however powerful. The path of the elector to the ballot box must be free from the ambush of fear and the enticement of fraud; the count so true and open that none shall gainsay it. Such a law should be absolutely non-partisan and impartial. It should give the advantange to honesty and the control to majorities.

Surely there is nothing sectional about this creed, and if it shall happen that the penalties of laws intended to enforce these rights fall here and not there, it is not because the law is sectional, but because, happily, crime is local and not universal. Nor should it be torgotten that every law, whether relating to elections or to any other subject, whether enacted by the state or by the nation, has force behind it. The courts, the marshal or constable, the posse comitatus, the prison, are all and always behind the law.

One cannot be justly charged with unfriendliness to any section or class who seeks only to restrain violations of law and of personal right. No community will find lawlessness profitable.

But it is said that this legislation will revive race animosities and some have revive race animosities, and some have even suggested that when the peaceral methods of fraud are made impossible they may be supplanted by intimidation and violence.

If the proposed law gives to any qualified elector, by a hair's weight, more thair his equal influence, or detracts by so much from any other qualified elector, it is natally impeached. But if the law is equal and the animosities it is to evoke grow out of the fact that some electors have been accustomed to exercise the marchise for others, as well as for themselves, then these animosities ought not to be confessed without sname, and cannot be given any weight in the discussion without dis-

No choice is left to us but to enforce with vigor all laws intended to secure to the citizen his constitutional rights and to recommend that the inadequacies of such laws be promptly remedied. If to promote with zeal and ready interest every project for the development of us material interests, its rivers, harbors, mines and factories, and the inteligence, peace and security under the law or its communities, and its homes is not accepted as sufficient evidence of triendhness to any state or section, I can not add connivance at election practices that not only disturb local results, but rob the election of other states and sections of their most priceless political rights.

Appropriations.

The preparation of the general appropri-tion bills should be conducted with the greatest care and the closest scrutiny of expenditures. Appropriations should be adequate to the needs of the public service, but they should be absolutely free from prodigality.

I venture again to remind you that the brief time remaining for the consideration of the important legislation now awaiting your attention offers no margin for waste. If the present duty is discharged with diligence, ndelity and courage the work of the Fifty-first congress may be confidently submitted to the considerate judgment of the people.

BENJAMIN HARRISON. EXECUTIVE MANSION, Dec. 1, 1890.

PUBLIC DEBT STATEMENI.

It Has Increased Over Six Million Dollars the Past Month.

Washington, Dec. 3.—The treasury department debt statement just issued shows an increase in the public debt during the past month of November amounting to $6,130,819. Unusually heavy payments during the month for civil and miscellaneous expenses, and large pension payments during November, accounts for the unusual statement of an increase instead of a decrease.

The bonded indebtedness of the government was reduced about $3,000,000 during the month, and now aggregates $629,492,590, against $632,283,390 on Nov. 1.

The surplus in the treasury to-day aggregates $59,044,625, against $67,803.033 a month ago, a decrease of nearly $9, 000,000 since Nov. 1.

Government receipts from all sources during November past aggregated $28, 986,124, against $30,716,967 in Novem-

Trying Ordeal of a Machinist out of Work.

RICHMOND, Ind., Dec. 3.-A young man now lies at the hospital in this city in a very critical condition, but is still fortunate in being alive. His name is William Hobin, and says he is a machinist looking for work, and that his father is a prosperous shoe dealer residing at 286 Noble street, Chicago.

On Monday this young man made a plucky escape from death while attempting to jump on a freight train. He missed his footing and was pulled upon the bridge while he held to the hand-holder on the car; then he could not let go lest he should fall eighty feet to the river, and to hold on was to be dragged clear across the bridge, 300 feet long. He, of course, resolved on the latter, and succeeded in saving his life, but was painfully hurt.
